A multidisciplinary artist with decades of creative leadership across industries, Sallie is known for unabashedly embracing a creative life.

As a trauma-informed, neurodiverse creator and performer, Sallie leads her CULTIVATING CREATIVITY workshops with an open, encouraging presence, sharing practical tools to help strengthen participants' connection to their own intuition and goals, while offering solutions to transforming resistance and creating more space for curiosity, exploration, and play in work and life.

As a freelance creative, Sallie has worked for Sundance, Facebook Business, as a stylist for folks like Kamala Harris, Katie Couric, Ashley Biden, and astronaut Kay Hire, and on projects for Netflix, HBO, Smithsonian, Fortune 100 Companies and many, many others.

Sallie offers her signature 90-minute CULTIVATING CREATIVITY workshop as in-person group workshops, corporate lunch-and-learn presentations, and remote zooms for unlimited participants. She is also available for one-on-one coaching.

Reach out at moonlightcreativecoaching@gmail.com for booking and start making magic - for yourself, with your team, and your community.

Sallie's sessions helped me turn the volume down on the negative thoughts blocking my ability to trust the creative process.

Sallie's calming presence created the perfect environment to speak candidly about my journey as an artist & entrepreneur.

She makes creativity feel accessible and supportive to ANYONE, not just the artists among us.

I'd recommend Sallie's work to anyone who needs the gentle guidance and fierce encouragement of a gifted creative.

Emmy Marie,
Cert. Trauma Coach

Sallie has a gift for creating a safe space for any professional (or person) to open up to possibility, play, and their own expression of life. Her prompts, examples, activities, and leadership were something to behold.

I cannot recommend her Cultivating Creativity workshop highly enough!
